

Sue Carrie Drummond
suecarriedrummond.com

Artist Statement:

My artwork examines clothing as material culture, extracting tacit narratives from these garments and the bodies that wear them. My practice resides between examining clothing as an object, connecting with processes used to make that clothing, and considering narratives of its past and present lineage.

The potential for meaning in clothing is directly connected to the way it interacts with the body. Clothing receives us, holding not just our histories but also those of people who wore the garments before us. Becoming a second skin it denotes on its surface the experiences and encounters we have with the exterior world. In this way, clothing can also store cultural and historical narratives of groups of people. Garments and cloth are the primary sources from which I draw out information about lived experiences, both personal and communal, that speak to identity, relationships, and performance.

Biography:

Sue Carrie Drummond is a papermaker, printmaker, and book artist. She's currently an Associate Professor of Art and Chair of the Art Department at Millsaps College in Jackson, MS.

Drummond was the recipient of the Artist's Book Residency Grant at Women's Studio Workshop in upstate New York in 2017. She's been an artist-in-residence at Sulfur Studios in Savannah, the Kimmel Nelson Harding Center in Nebraska City, at Penland School of Crafts outside of Asheville, and at Minnesota Center for Book Arts in Minneapolis.

Drummond regularly shows her work in juried and curated exhibitions across the country and many of her pieces are included in special collections nationwide such as the Metropolitan Museum of Art, Library of Congress, and Harvard University.

Exhibitions:

- 2023 Between Two Fires, Pyramid Atlantic, Hyattsville, MD.
- 2021 A Beautiful Snare, Lycoming College Art Gallery, Williamsport, PA.
 A Beautiful Snare, Marie Hull Gallery, Ridgeland, MS.
 A Beautiful Snare, Hall Gallery, Jackson, MS.
- 2019 Dwell Upon, Celia Cocker Art Gallery, Hartsville, NC.